Abstract-

Women are working at home all the time; rather it is a whole-time job. Moreover, you are not paid for it. House work or the work done by woman at home. Sometimes, women work from home, they are paid for it. For example, you can do some manual work like beauty course, stitching, by using laptop you can engage yourself in some companies. So, a woman can earn by staying at home and by going outside the home. Therefore, a woman can be employed in both ways. In this paper, I want to study simply the problems, stresses, difficulties faced by women by adding to her already overworked schedule.

Keywords- Women, Housewife, Employed Women, Challenges, Patriarchy, Problems, Difficulties, Health Issues.

Indian women had suffered a lot in middle period of history. There were too many traditional dogmas. Such as in Hindu religion, the challenges women faced in olden primitive Hindu society were, child marriage, Sati Pratha, Parda Pratha, restriction on widow remarriage, too much torture on widow, child marriage, illiteracy etc. But in modern times, such as, the challenges are gender biasness, sexual harassment at workplace, abuse, lack of proper education, dowry related problems, teasing, rape,

Women are facing lots of stress, restrictions in her life. To make progress it seems very difficult. It is a great tragedy, that she was not allowed to take birth. So, what to say about the challenges she has to face after birth. A woman would be mother had to face lots of torture during pregnancy. On the possibilities of a girl child in the womb. Female infanticide was very much prevalent in Indian society. That is why sex ratio showed decrease of girls than boys. During pregnancy also, she was not properly fed. She was the last one to eat. Balanced diet was nowhere in the picture. So, this was the life style of Indian women.

Objective-

I want to know the problems, difficulties which Indian are facing because of trying to do some earning/income.

Situations of both housewife and employed women are different. Suppose a housewife doing work at home, does not know the travelling problems. As she has no experience of the outside world. She does not know about teasing. An employed woman daily may have to see different problems. Generally, women unitedly suffer due to patriarchy at home.

Methodology-

This study is theoretical and it is based on secondary data. The secondary includes journals, books, internet, govt. information's in mass media. Here in this paper, objectives are discussed on the basis of studies. If she doubles her responsibilities by working routine work of cooking cleaning, washing clothes and working outside for income. So where is the time? It is an irony; she is the producer but cannot enjoy her fruits of labor. The positions a woman held was inferior to men in India. She had to work harder to gain, what she has achieved today. At present, we are seeing her in different spheres of life and has achieved high status.

Disparity In Education- It is said that lots of money have to spent om marriage and dowry, so parents try to save the money instead of spending on education of the girls. Here too much money is spent on boys for their education.

Child bearing and child rearing is a whole-time work of women in India. So, there is no time for making her improvement in life.

Conclusion-

In the constitution, equality of rights is mentioned, but it should be implemented. For the proper development of women proper measures should be adopted.
